

Incubation of First ever Company "Developers#"

Department of Computer Science and Information Technology in collaboration with Centre of Software Research and Development has successfully incubated the first ever company "Developers#". The inaugural ceremony was held on 18th June 2015 in Civil Audio Visual Hall, NED University. It's a startup of two outstanding graduates of NED University, Yasmeen Sahar and Iqra Ghanchi.

The main goal behind the establishment of this company was to give an idea of self-employment to the young and talented graduates of our university and to provide them a platform where they could excel by utilizing their ingenuity and versatility and make wonders in the IT world.

The company started its journey with a number of successful projects related to mobile application development, website development and desktop application development, namely,

1. GPS Data Collector
2. Watch & Earn
3. Cell ID Search

The company has also carried out a number of hands-on workshops for the undergraduate students of CSIT Department.
